Search orders by customer name, id, etc.

when the user clicks on "add new product" display the same modal as edit product box but have it say "Add a new product" when the user hovers over the caption- display edit and trash icon. When the user clicks on the edit icon, have the text be replaced by input type="text", when the text is changed/overed_out, display the save waiting icon to indicate that it has been saved. When the user clicks on the trash icon, display a confirm box asking the user if they really want to delete the category.

when the user hovers over the image, change the mouse cursor (to show that it's draggable and display the remove icon (hide the remove icon when the user hovers out)) previews button opens a new tab with the appropriate product page
